BORN ON PAVEMENT.

Mother Came to See Circus and Brought Forth.

During the progress of John Robinson's circus parade Friday Bob Ella Jellett, a colored woman living near Beverly, gave birth to a girl baby on the pavement in front of a sixth street saloon, just half a square from the Court House. Several colored women were standing near by and one of them took charge of the infant and carried it to the home of John Moore, col., on Webber street. In a few minutes the woman was placed in a hack and taken to Moore's house by order of the county authorities.

The mother and child are both doing well.

MISS MARY HILL.

Death Invades The Home of Sinking Fork Farmer.

Miss Mary Hill, daughter of Mr.
Warfield Hill, of the Sinking Fork country, died Friday last, after an illness of several weeks. She was 22 years old. Death was due to typhoid fever.

The interment took place in the family burying ground Saturday

McKINLEY IS DEAD; ROOSEVELT SWORN IN DOCTORS DECEIVED

Hopes of President McKinley's Recovery Not Well Founded.

Suffered a Relapse Friday and Died Saturday at 2:15 a. m.—Autopsy Shows Wound Was Necessarily Fatal.

Milburn House, Buffalo, N. Y., Sept. 14.—President McKinley died at 2:15 a. m.

He had been unconscious since 7:50 p. m.

His last conscious hour on earth was spent with the wife to whom he devoted a lifetime of care.

He died unattended by a minister of the gospel, but his last words were an humble submission to the will of the God in whom he believed.

He was reconciled to the cruel fate to which an assassin's bullet will be a state funeral.

Vice President Roosevelt, who now succeeds to the presidency, may take the oath of office where-ever he happens to hear the news.
The cabinet will, of course, resign in a body, and President Roosevelt will have an opportunity of forming a new cabinet if he so desires.

The rage of the people of Buffalo against the President's assassin, when they learned tonight that he was dying, was boundless. Thousands surrounded the jail, and the en-

ROOSEVELT TAKES OATH

Obligation Administered Saturday Afternoon in Buffalo.

The Cabinet Present at the Ceremony—Will Carry Out Policy of Government Outlined by His Predecessor.

Buffalo, Sept. 14.—President Roosevelt took the oath of office and entered upon the discharge of his duties as successor to the late President McKinley this afternoon.

President Roosevelt reached Buffalo at 1:40 this afternoon, accompanied only by his private secretary, Wm. Loeb, Jr.

An immense crowd which had been awaiting his arrival for hours was gathered about the station eager to catch a first sight of the President. The President landed the heavy oak trimmings and the massive book cases giving it somewhat the appearance of a legat-den. A pretty bay window with stained glass and heavy hangings formed a background, and against this the President took his position.

Surrounding him were the five members of the cabinet, Secretaries Root, Hitchcock, Long, Wilson and Postmaster General Smith. Nearby were Senator Chauncey M. Depew, Judge of the Court of Appeals Haight, John Scathard, Mr. and

WILLIAM McKINLEY, THE DEAD PRESIDENT.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT.

had condemned him, and faced death in the same spirit of calmness and poise which had marked his long and honorable career.

His last conscious words reduced to writing by Dr. Mann, who stood at his bedside when they were uttered, were as follows:

"Good-bye, all good-bye. It is God's way. His will be done."

His relatives and the members of his official family were at the Milburn house, except Secretary Wilson, who did not avail himself of the opportunity. Some others of his personal and political friends also took leave of him.

This painful ceremony was simple. His friends came to the door of the sick room, took a longing glance at him and turned tearfully away. He was practically unconscious during this time.

But powerful heart stimulants, including oxygen, were employed to restore him to consciousness for his final parting with his wife. He asked for her and she sat at his side and held his hand. He consoled her and bade her good-bye.
She went through the heart-trying scene with the same bravery and fortitude with which she has borne the grief of the tragedy which ended his life.

The immediate cause of the President's death is undetermined. His physicians disagree, and probably it will require an autopsy to fix the exact cause.

The President's remains will be taken to Washington, and there will be a state funeral.

FRIDAY MORNING.

Began to Sink After 2 o'clock, and From That Moment There Was Little Hope.

Milburn House, Buffalo, N. Y., Sept. 13.—President McKinley began to sink shortly after 2 o'clock this morning, after a critical period of twelve hours, in which alarm and hope mingled in the emotions of those who surrounded him. Trouble began on the preceding afternoon through the failure of the digestive organs to perform their functions.
The necessity for nourishment had been pressing for several days, and the partial failure of artificial means had led to the adoption of natural means. The rectum, through which nourishment had been injected previously to Wednesday, became irritated and rejected the enemata. This forced the physicians to try to feed him through the mouth, probably before the stomach was prepared.

The first administration of beef juice through the mouth, however, seemed to agree with the patient, and the physicians were highly gratified at the way the stomach seemed to receive the food.

Premature Jubilation.

Dr. McBurney was especially at the terrace. When he left the train an escort of the Fourth signal corps formed about him and conducted him to an automobile, which his friend, Ansley Wilcox, had in waiting.

The demonstration which greeted his appearance was in keeping with the solemnity of the occasion.
Those who saw him did not raise a cheer, but attested their respect by lifting their hats.

As soon as the President entered the vehicle the chauffeur turned the lever and the auto went skimming away to the residence of Mr. Wilcox, on Delaware avenue.

The President arrived at the Wilcox home at 1:43 o'clock, his only attendants being Mr. William Loeb, Jr., his secretary, and Mr.
Ansley Wilcox. With hardly any conversation he retired at once to his room, where he bathed and dressed.

Official Call of Condolence.

At 2:30 o'clock he was ready to leave for the Milburn house, where he desired to make his official call of condolence. He was escorted by a detail from the Fourth signal corps and mounted police.

It was 3:15 when President Roosevelt came back to the house of Mr. Ansley Wilcox, and until 3:25 when the cabinet arrived, preparations were being made for the taking of the oath of office.

The place selected was the library of Mr. Wilcox's house, a rather small room, but picturesque,

Mrs. Ansley Wilcox, Miss Wilcox, George P. Sawyer, Drs. Mann, Park and Stockton, Mr. and Mrs.
Carleton Sprague, Mr. and Mrs.
John G. Milburn, Secretary to the President Wm. Loeb, Jr., Secretary to the deceased President Geo. B.
Cortelyou, Dr. and Mr. Charles Carey, R. C. Scathard, J. D. Sawyer, Wm. Jeffers, official telegraph-er of the United States Senate, and Judge of the United States District Court John R. Hazel.

Judge Hazel stood near the President in the bay window and the latter showed his almost extreme nervousness by plucking at the lapel of his long frock coat and nervously tapping the hardwood floor with his heel. He stepped over once to Secretary Root and for about five minutes they conversed earnestly. The question at issue was whether the President should first sign an oath of office and then swear in or whether he should swear in first and sign the document after.

Root's Solemn Announcement.

At precisely 3:32 o'clock Secretary Root ceased his conversation with the President and stepped back while an absolute hush fell upon every one in the room, said in an almost inaudible voice:

"Mr. Vice President, I—," then his voice broke and for fully two minutes the tears came down his face and his lips quivered so that he could not continue his utterances. There were sympathetic
